Course summary

Nearly all economies can today be characterized as capitalistic. However, there are pronounced differences with regard to the core institutions and policies structuring and regulating economies. Identifying several models of capitalism, scholars as e.g. Albert (1991) differentiate between a more market-oriented, “Anglo-Saxon” type and a more consensus-oriented, “Rhenish” type of capitalism. Comparable typologies have been proposed by Crouch (2005), Esping-Andersen (1990), Hall und Soskice (2001), and Schonfield (1965). In order to structure and explain differences between capitalistic systems, these typologies offer a valuable grid to reduce the empirical complexity of today’s economies. The seminar offers an overview on these different models of capitalism and discusses their underlying theories in detail. A special focus will be on power-centered explanations in the tradition of Power Resource Theory (PRT) and more functional approaches exemplified by the Varieties of Capitalism (VoC) literature. These theories will then be applied to major topics of comparative political economy, including welfare states, labor-markets and immigration policies.

Prerequisites

The focus of the seminar literature will be on empirical studies which mainly follow a quantitative research design. Therefore, a general understanding of this kind of methodology is highly recommended. Since nearly all reading assignments are in English, this will be the general classroom language as well. Participants therefore must know enough English to be able to participate actively. Perfection is not required – you just need to understand and make yourself understood.

Registration

Students have to register via KLIPS.

Reading assignments

At the beginning of October the required texts for the sessions of the seminar can be accessed via ILIAS. If you register via KLIPS you will automatically have access to the ILIAS files.

Working requirements and assessment method

All participants are expected to:

- attend the seminar on a regular basis
- complete assigned obligatory readings according to schedule
- actively contribute to class discussions
- give a 10 to 15 minutes presentation in the seminar

Depending on the “Prüfungsordnung”

- EITHER write a research paper of 20-25 pages (but not more than 10.000 words) in length
- OR sit a written exam (probably in the last session of the seminar on 11th February 2016)
- BOTH THE TERM PAPER AND THE EXAM HAVE TO BE TAKEN IN ENGLISH!

Submission of the research paper

The research paper have to be handed in an electronic version via email to spies@wiso.uni-koeln.de. The paper version should be handed in personally at the secretary of the Cologne Center for Comparative Politics (IBW Gebäude, Herbert-Lewin-Str. 2, 1st floor, Room 1.09). Deadline for both is 15th March 2016.
